FOREWORD

This book is a transcription of a microfilm of the 1840 United States Census for Franklin County, Virginia. The journal that was microfilmed was not the original census record but a composite of the information gathered. From the information on the microfilm we know that Stephen Turnbull wrote the information into the journal and compiled the totals to arrive at the number of individuals enumerated.

The journal listed the head of household in alphabetical order only sorted by the 1st letter of the surname. This book went a step farther and listed those entries sorted entirely in alphabetical order.

Even though the entries indicate a certain number of persons in each household it does not differentiate between family members, boarders or servants. It was a common practice not only to have servants but also to keep boarders. Therefore, not every person in a given household would be members of the same family.

The enumeration did count the number of slaves for each household but did not provide any further information on them. Almost every single household had at least one slave. Just roughly averaging the number of slaves by the number of households, each household would have had about 3 slaves. It was a rare household that did not have any. I did not list these numbers because they have no value in genealogy research and there was not enough space on the page.

Other information is available on the microfilm but again, since it has no real genealogical value it was not included here. That information covers Employment, Deaf and Dumb, Blind and Insane and Education. Although it may be interesting it does not put a name with the information.

Mr. Turnbull's handwriting was very easy to read but he used variations on spelling some names that I had not seen before. At the bottom of this page you will find a list of some of the variations on spelling.

A special column gave the names of "Pensioners for Revolutionary or Military Services ...". These pensions were not limited to service in the Revolutionary War but could have been given for service in other wars, such as the War of 1812-14. I have found one of the court appearances in which they appeared in order to apply for their pensions.

Names and possible variations:

Boman - Bowman	Buitnett - Boitnott	Class - Glass	Cocks - Cox
Creg - Craig	Chavers - Shavers	Gallaway - Callaway
Foster - Forster	Garrant - Guerrant	Graly - Gravly	Hodgers - Hodges
Hutson - Hudson	Jinny - Janny	McGuier - McGuire	Medors - Meadors
Olineal - Odineal	Nowel - Howel (?)	Ousten - Austin	Pain - Payne
Peggin - Pagan	Peteet - Poteet	Ulman - Allman	Vyer - Via
Wisong - Wysong

The following includes those named as “Pensioners for Revolutionary or Military Services included in the foregoing”.
(Please note: this means they could have, but did not necessarily, serve in the Revolutionary War. Service could have been after that war, such as the War of 1812-14, French & Indian War, etc.)
